JAN 11 1962 Career Talks At Princeton

Medina, Dulles, Stewart
Among Speakers for Seniors Program

Special to Newark News.

PRINCETON—Judge Harold R. Medina, former CIA director, Allen W. Dulles and movie actor James Stewart will be among 50 Princeton University trustees and alumni who will return to campus tomorrow to participate in career panels for seniors.

Under the Trustee Senior Conference program, sponsored for the last six years by the board of trustees, university seniors are given the opportunity to discuss various careers with alumni in those specific fields.

All participants in the program will assemble at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow afternoon in 50 McCosh Hall for a brief speech by Harold H. Helm, chairman of the trustees executive committee. They will then separate into small discussion groups covering 10 fields of interest.

The fields include the ministry, teaching, government services, science and engineering, business, industry and real estate, medicine, law, insurance, finance and theater, communication and architecture.

Among other panel members will be Governor Meyner; Dr. Ernest Gordon, dean of the university chapel; Dr. Lyman Spitzer, of the astronomy department.

Harvey S. Firestone Jr., businessman, and Dr. Charles B. Atwater, associate headmaster of the Pingry School, Elizabeth.
